Attention – Forensic Science Majors in the CUNY Justice Academy:

Join us on Sunday, March 1, for a special event at the 92nd St Y in Manhattan – tickets provided at no cost for forensics majors!

Panel Discussion:
“Off the Top: The Neuroscience of Creativity”

Science rapper Baba Brinkman (Rap Guide to Evolution) teams up with neuroscientist Dr. Heather Berlin, neuropsychologist Rex Jung and cognitive psychologist and science writer Scott Barry Kaufman to explore the brain basis of improvisation, mixing freestyle rap with the latest research.

DETAILS

- Everyone will meet at the 92nd St Y (2nd Ave/92nd St in Manhattan) by 7:15 p.m.
- The event runs until about 9:30/10:00 p.m.
- Exact meeting details will be given to those who RSVP.

*This is the next outing in a series of activities for the forensics students in the CUNY Justice Academy at JJC’s partner schools - BCC, BMCC, Hostos, KCC, and QCC.

Email prism@jjay.cuny.edu to reserve your spot! RSVP by Tuesday, February 24. Please be sure to give your name, your school, and the event date (3/1) or title. Spots are limited and likely to fill up before the RSVP deadline.
 Only RSVP please if you are sure you can attend.
