Engaging Community-Based Organizations and Other Community Stakeholders

CEWD continues to support community-based organizations (CBOs), labor unions, and businesses by:

- a) providing opportunities for participants to enroll in no-cost occupational training programs that help them transition to sustainable employment and/or enroll in a Hostos degree program; and
- b) working together to develop customized programs for their participants. CEWD collaborates with CBOs, labor unions, and businesses to offer occupational training and/or adult basic education programs.

In FY 2024, we provided 15 customized occupational training and/or adult basic education programs to eight CBOs, one employer, one government agency, and two labor unions.

In addition, CEWD provided informational workshops that support local CBOs, Faith-Based Organizations, and Women-Owned Businesses. In collaboration with the Mayor’s Office of Contracting Services (MOCS), Hostos CEWD hosted a three-part series: MOCS In Your Neighborhood Uptown Workshops. The first workshop in the series, entitled Finding Contracting Opportunities for Nonprofits, was held on November 13, 2023. Over the course of our collaboration, 242 Minority and Women-Owned Business Enterprises (MWBEs) came together to engage, learn, and network. Fifty-one (51) participants attended the workshop for Nonprofits; forty-one (41) attended the event for Faith-Based Organizations; one hundred fifty (150) attended the event for Women-Owned Business Enterprises; and 344 attended the Business Mixer.

CEWD Industry Engagement: CEWD’s NYSDOL

Registered Community Health Worker Apprenticeship Program Helps Engage Employers

Hostos CEWD has a long-standing commitment to providing students with high-quality Community Health Worker developed its CHW training program in 2012 as part of CUNY CareerPATH, an initiative funded by the US Department of Labors’ Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training grant. In 2013, a credit articulation agreement was signed with the Education Department and the Division of Academic Affairs to allow CEWD’s CHW students to earn up to nine (9) academic credits towards an A.S. degree in Community Health at Hostos. In Spring 2017, Hostos CEWD expanded its program by establishing a New York State Department of Labor (NYSDOL) Registered CHW Apprenticeship Program. The apprenticeship program includes 144 hours of didactic education and 2,000 hours of on-the-job training (OJT).

CEWD’s NYSDOL Registered CHW Apprenticeship Program has allowed the division to partner with employers who want to fill vacancies by having their staff participate in the CHW apprenticeship program. New hires received a starting salary of $50,000 plus.

CEWD’s long-term goal is to increase the number of skilled Community Health Workers locally and regionally; as well as, creating an industry “gold standard” for training CHWs. CEWD receives both private and public funding to support its CHW program.

Supporting CEWD Students

CEWD is committed to supporting students along their educational and career trajectories.

Below are two examples of how CEWD programs have supported students.

o CEWD Student: Jinnette

In Summer 2022, Jinnette was awarded a Hostos Continuing Education and Workforce Development (CEWD) Recovery Hub Scholarship, which allowed her to enroll in our Certified Medical Administrative Assistant (MAA) program at no-cost to her. In August 2022, Jinnette obtained her MAA Certification. She returned to Hostos CEWD in April 2023 and successfully completed our Certified Billing and Coding Specialist and CPR/AED certificate programs. With these three certifications, Jinnette started working simultaneously at the NYC Health & Hospitals and DocGo, a telehealth company primarily catering to asylum seekers. She is currently working as a patient administrator at DocGo. Hostos continues to play a crucial role in Jinnette's journey. To achieve her goal of becoming an MRI or ultrasound technician, she enrolled in the Radiologic Technology Degree Program at Hostos.

o CEWD Student: Seiaka

Seiaka's pursuit of a career in healthcare is best described as a journey of resilience and Determination. When he was a high school freshman, a life-altering accident put a sudden pause on Seiaka's education. However, after meeting the Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetist (CRNA) assigned to his surgery, he identity a new career pathway as a CRNA. Seiaka earned his GED and began his educational journey.

While pursuing an associate's degree in Dietetics and Nutrition Science at CUNY's Bronx Community College, Seiaka enrolled in Hostos CEWD's Patient Care Technician (PCT) Certificate Program. He successfully completed our PCT program in Spring 2023. Upon earning his PCT certificate, he was hired as a Patient Care Associate (PCA). "Everything the instructors taught was relevant in the exams and at the job" said Seiaka. The knowledge he gained from Hostos CEWD's PCT Certificate Program helped him transition into his role as a PCA.

Seiaka also credits CEWD's PCT program with preparing him for his nursing coursework and making it less challenging. "I've been recommending the PCT program at Hostos to other students interested in nursing," said Seiaka. "It's a great way to get exposure to the basics because the degree is very, very challenging." He is currently pursuing an Associate's Degree in Nursing at St. Paul's School of Nursing and anticipates graduating in Summer 2025. Seiaka remains focused on his long-term career goal—becoming a CRNA.

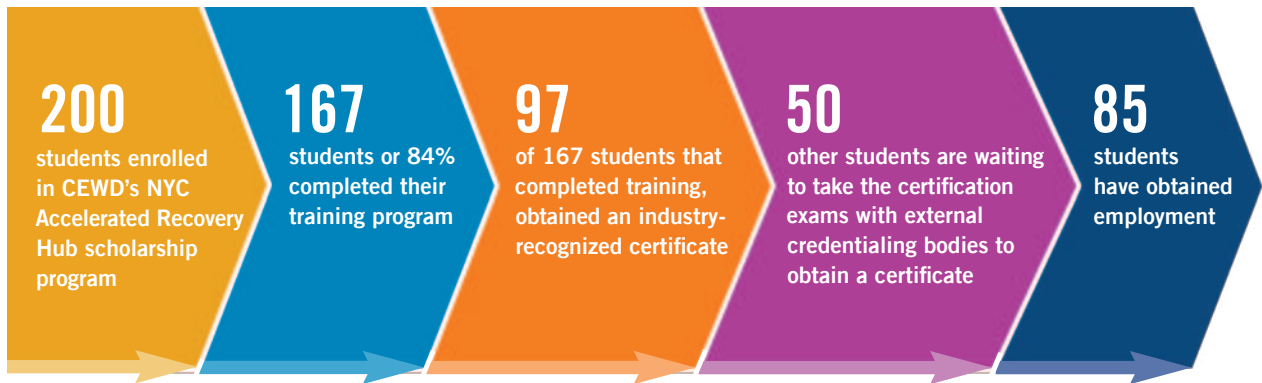

New Grant Awards

CEWD continues to seek funding to provide students by providing scholarships and no-cost programming. This year, CEWD secured two new grants. The first is from the New York Community Trust Foundation to support the NYC Accelerated Recovery Hub. The second is from CUNY Central for the English Language for Work Initiative. Below find a description of both grant programs.

• Funding to Expand the NYC Accelerated Recovery Hub Program

In 2022, with funding from the New York Community Trust, LaGuardia Community College and Hostos Community College launched a new initiative—the NYC Accelerated Recovery Hub—to help low-income New Yorkers living in Queens and the Bronx, who have been upended by the COVID-19 pandemic, obtain access to low or no-cost occupational training programs. From January 2022-December 2023, the Division of Continuing Education and Workforce Development (CEWD) at Hostos provided full tuition scholarships for students enrolling in the following CEWD training programs: Certified Nursing Assistant, Patient Care Technician, CompTIA, Certified Medical Administrative Assistant, Medical Billing and Coding, as well as EKG/Phlebotomy as an upskill opportunity for Certified Nursing Assistants.

CEWD’s NYC Accelerated Recovery Hub Scholarship Program

Based on the success of this initiative, the New York Community Trust awarded LaGuardia Community College and Hostos Community College a second grant to support the NYC Accelerated Recovery Hub. CEWD received $400,000 and will provide full tuition scholarships for 80 participants who enroll in one of CEWD’s NYC Accelerated Recovery Hub supported training programs.

- Funding to Train Asylum Seekers

The Division of Continuing Education and Workforce Development (CEWD) was awarded $250,000 from CUNY Central's Workforce Development Initiative—Contract Courses Workforce Development funding program—to support the CUNY English Language for Work Initiative. This initiative aims to provide asylum seekers with occupational training, so they can obtain employment and establish roots in New York City. At Hostos, CEWD will provide up to 75 asylum seekers with access to contextualized English as a Second Language (ESL) occupational training over the next three years. This funding will allow CEWD to expand its existing contextualized ESL occupational training program for Home Health Aides and develop a new contextualized ESL occupational training program for Customer Service/Retail, which will result in an industry-recognized credential from the National Retail Federation (NRF).
